Local Farm Bureau Helps Circulate Annexation Petition

The Hempstead County Farm Bureau at its meeting here Thursday night endorsed the petition to refer Act 298 of 1971 to the voters in the next general election. If the petition is successful Act 298 will be killed until the November 1972 election—and the present Act 65 will continue to prevail.

The Farm Bureau began circulating the petition Thursday night. I asked the Bureau to furnish volunteer supervisors who would arrange for circulating the petitions in various parts of the county and turn them in to The Star office, where the circulator will sign and be notarized—and I will pay 10c per signature. This is a personal donation on my part.

As I explained in an editorial published June 15, this is a battle over the laws determining annexation policies of cities. Formerly cities annexed adjacent property on a single vote tabulation, the big city overwhelming the few suburbanites.

But in the 1969 General Assembly a reform was made by Act 65. This provided that in an annexation election the votes of city and suburban citizens had to be tabulated separately, and annexation had to be approved by both tabulations before becoming effective. Opponents called Act 65 "the city killer bill."

These opponents launched a counter attack in the 1971 legislative session and passed Act 298 as a repealer for No. 65. The effect of Act 298 would be to return to the practice of lumping city and suburban votes in a single tally—and that's what this petition is trying to stop: Knocking out 298 so that 65 will be retained.

Anyone who believes in fair play and voting justice may get petition copies at The Star office, circulate them, and present them to us for payment at 10c per signature. The circulator must sign under a notary's oath that he circulated the petition personally.

Here are the rules on circulating a petition:

1. Only registered citizens are eligible to sign.
 2. Each signature must be accompanied by address.
 3. Each signature must be made individually—that is, a husband can not sign for his wife, and vice versa.
 4. Signature should be in ink or with an indelible pencil or ballpoint pen.
 5. Each petition must confine its signatories to one county.
- Currently we are circulating for Hempstead County citizens. Nevada citizens must not sign now.

We will move the petition campaign into Nevada County within a week, headquartering that drive at Prescott. Nevadans will sign then.

Deadline for filing of all petitions in Little Rock is actually Sunday, July 18—but to be on the safe side we will close out our campaign and file Friday, July 16.

New Livestock Commissioner

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dr. Richard Martin Thomas, 52, was appointed Thursday by Gov. Dale Bumpers as commissioner of the Arkansas Livestock and Poultry Commission.

Thomas had acted as head of the agency since April 1 in place of Dr. J. B. Roberts, whose resignation had been requested by the administration.

A member of the commission staff since 1961, Thomas had been supervisor of the Little Rock Diagnostic laboratory prior to acting in place of Roberts.

Hot Weather Predicted for Holidays

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The hot - as-a-firecracker weather of the past week is expected to continue over the Fourth of July holiday weekend, but the fuse could be dampened somewhat by scattered showers and thunderstorms.

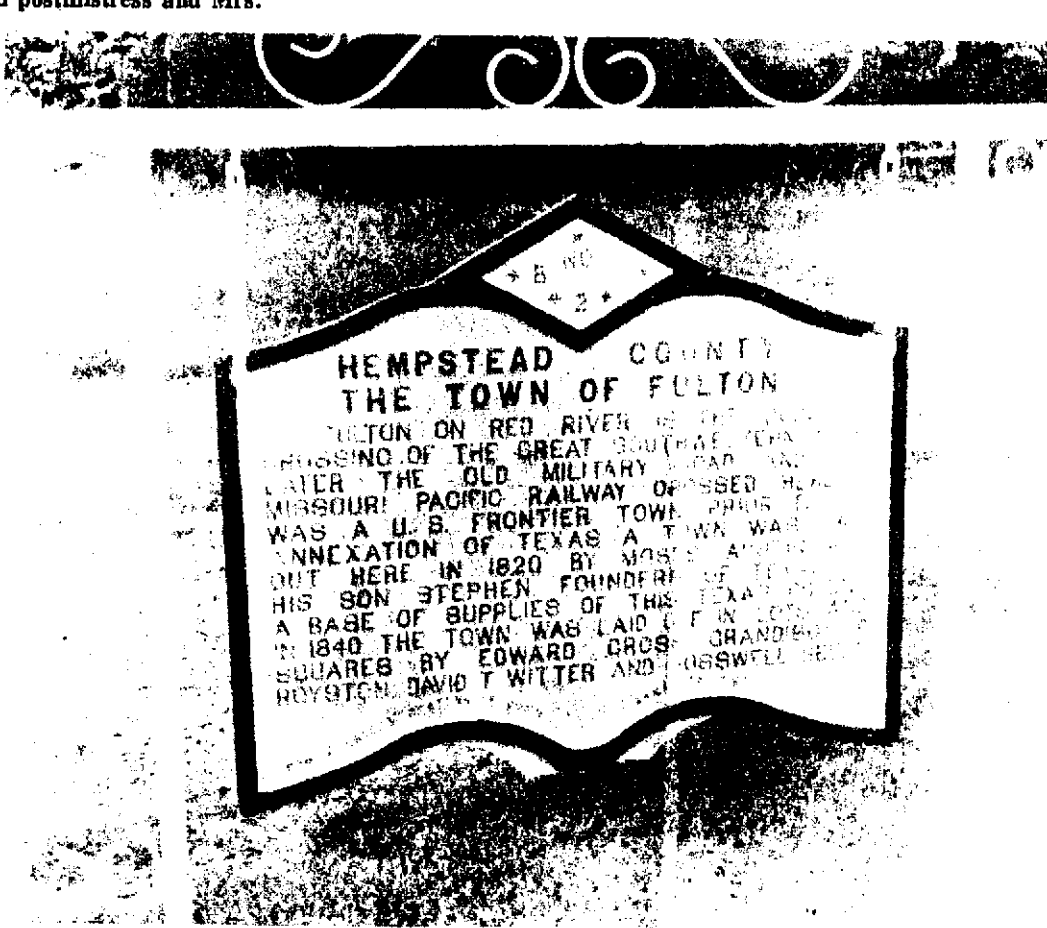

The shower activity, however, is forecast mainly for the afternoon and evenings, giving those who plan to enjoy the outdoors over the three-day holiday period a chance to get in plenty of picnics, golf and water sports.

Cooler temperatures Thursday night were brought in as a weak frontal system drifted southward into Central Arkansas, accounting for the clouds and showers.

Thursday, Arkansas weather was much the same as the past several days with partly cloudy to cloudy skies, high humidity and thundershowers. The heaviest showers occurred in the afternoon and early evening. The largest amount of rainfall reported was 3.06 inches at Warren.

Damage Heavy in Accident

City police report an accident at 7:05 this morning when a car owned by Betty Daugherty of Hope which was parked at a curb on E. 3rd St., was struck by a car driven by W.C. Gentry, also of Hope. Damage was reported as heavy. Officers Neal and Shirley covered the accident and no charges were filed.

500 Workers Strike

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Featherlite Mfg. Co., Inc., was struck Thursday by about 500 members of the United Steelworkers Union.

The strike followed rejection by union members of a proposed contract that had been agreed on by company and union bargainers.

Neither side would disclose terms of the proposed contract. Featherlite makes aluminum screen doors. The strikers are members of Local 6794.

Main Concern Over the Viet Cong Plan Is the Motive Behind Proposal Bombers Hit Positions Inside DMZ

By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration's immediate concern over the newest Viet Cong peace plan appears not so much whether to accept or reject, but to determine the motive behind the proposal.

The official White House and State Department stance is the seven-point plan contains "positive as well as clearly unacceptable elements" and will be given serious study.

The new ingredient and apparently the positive one in official U.S. eyes is the proposal made Wednesday by chief Viet Cong Paris delegate Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh.

Feels Things Are Moving to End War

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Carl Albert, citing confidential information from President Nixon, says "things are moving" in the administration effort to end the war.

Albert thus joined his Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield in praise of Nixon's apparent behind-the-scenes efforts for peace.

Mansfield said "full credit should be given to the President for the initiatives he has undertaken."

Albert, at a news conference Thursday, urged Nixon to take the American people into his confidence and given them more information about the move toward peace.

"I think he should be a little more specific," Albert said. "There is a gap between the President's knowledge of where he is and where the people think he is. I hope a way can be found without disturbing negotiations of taking the people more into his confidence."

The speaker, who had a private breakfast meeting Monday with Nixon, said he came away convinced the President's optimism about future success of his plan for ending the war is well-founded.

"I don't want to get too deep into this," Albert said, "But we are getting communications from Hanoi, directly and indirectly, from Paris and otherwise, that indicate things are moving."

Albert would not say whether the latest Viet Cong proposal at the Paris peace talks—for a simultaneous withdrawal of U.S. forces and release of U.S. war prisoners by North Vietnam—is related to information he received at the White House.

Rand Loses Custody of Secret Data

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird today ordered security custody of all secret documents taken away from the Rand Corp., a "think tank" which once employed Dr. Daniel Ellsberg.

The action follows Ellsberg's indictment last Monday on charges of theft and unauthorized possession of government documents.

Ellsberg has acknowledged that he was the source of the documents on which the New York Times and other publications based articles on the origins and growth of U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war.

Before leaving on a trip to the Far East, Laird disclosed in a memorandum that security agents had "found a number of security deficiencies in the security system and practices of Rand Corp., which did more than $18.6 million in sensitive studies for the Air Force and other defense agencies in the past year."

Laird also held a planeside news conference before departure.

Jobless Rate Drops Sharply in June

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate dropped sharply in June to 5.6 per cent of the labor force, even though more than a million more workers lost their jobs, the government said today.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics attributed the sharp decline in the jobless rate to a statistical quirk. It said the drop "may be somewhat overstated" because more young workers than usual were still in school—and not seeking work—when the unemployment survey was taken the week of June 6 through June 12.

Nevertheless, the fall was moderately good news for the Nixon administration, which has set a goal of reducing unemployment to 4.5 per cent of the labor force by the middle of 1972.

The Labor Department said the number of unemployed persons climbed by 1.1 million over May, to 5.5 million last month. In May, the unemployment rate was 6.2 per cent.

The department noted the unemployment rate usually increases sharply between May and June, but added the rise was much less this year as a smaller than usual number of young people entered the labor force at the end of the school year.

By using a statistical method of adjusting unemployment for seasonal influences, the department figured the level of unemployment was down by 530,000.

It was an inconclusive report in terms of the economic expansion pursued by President Nixon in an effort to reduce joblessness. The statistical quirk in June possibly meant the unemployment rate would show a greater rise next month.

The six-tenths of one per cent decrease in unemployment was one of the sharpest in this decade. It returned the unemployment rate to the level of last October, when the nation was undergoing a strike in the automobile industry.

Most of the decline in unemployment occurred among teenagers and young adults, the department said, with the jobless rate for teenagers dropping from 7.3 per cent in May to 15.8 per cent in June.

Unemployment among young adults fell from 11.1 per cent to 9.9 per cent.

For men 25 and over, the jobless rate declined from 3.6 per cent to 3.3 per cent. For women 25 and over the rate was down from 4.8 per cent to 4.5 per cent.

Total unemployment in June declined by 500,000 to 78.4 million, the same level as in March, the department said.

Urban Renewal Appraisals to Continue

The Housing Authority of the City of Hope has received approval to proceed with the 2nd appraisals of properties to be acquired within the Urban Renewal project area.

Dorsey McRae Jr. will be making the Non-residential appraisals and Jesse Duckett will be making the residential. This work is another phase of Hope Urban Renewal.

Prison Escapees Picked Up

VAN BUREN, Ark. (AP) — Police said Thursday they had picked up Charles W. Johnson, 25, and James M. Bureau, both of whom were wanted in Oklahoma for escape from prison. Officers said the two men were arrested when found walking along a Van Buren street. They were jailed in the Crawford County Jail.

Sheriff Bill Vickery said the two escaped early Wednesday from prison at El Reno, Okla.

$19.3 Million Increase in State Revenue

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state general fund received $19.3 million more in the fiscal year ended Wednesday than in the previous fiscal year, the Administration Department reported Thursday.

Dr. Max Milam, department director, said general revenue collections were half of one percent below the original department forecast for the fiscal year just ended.

The collections by the Revenue Department amounted to $251,364,193 in general revenue, up from $232,002,134 in the preceding fiscal year.

Milam said corporate and individual income tax collections fell short of predictions, accounting for the slight error in the department's revenue forecast.

General revenue collected by the Insurance Department will total about $8 million, bringing the year's total to about $259 million.

Three per cent of the total — roughly $7.5 million — goes for operations of fiscal and constitutional agencies. Another $11,575,000 was withheld as reserve to pay state income tax refunds.

As a result, the collections fell about $1 million short of the sum needed to fully fund Allotments A and B of the Revenue Stabilization Act, which governs the allocation of funds for state programs.

The allotments were funded, however, since the state kept the books open on Wednesday, the last day of the fiscal year. Normally, collections on the last day are carried forward to the next fiscal year.

Sales tax collections amounted to $109,828,516, up more than $10 million for the previous fiscal year, and cigarette tax collections totaled $26,617,731, up more than $3 million.

The estimated income tax owed by individuals to the state under the withholding system amounted to $42,948,535, up more than $5 million, but corporate income taxes decreased almost $1 million to $6,797,609.

Other taxes and the revenue from them:

—Use tax, $9,760,229, up almost $1 million.

—Mixed drinks, $480,331, up almost $100,000.

Special levies, such as fees and permits, totaled $120,348,518, an increase of more than $10 million, and the combined special-general revenue collections amounted to $371,712,712 compared to $342,031,983 in the previous fiscal year.

Claims Beatle Socked Her

LONDON (AP) — An American who describes herself as the Beatles' No. 1 fan claims she was socked in the nose by one of the objects of her devotion.

Carolyn Mitchell, 24, of Salt Lake City, demanded an apology from Paul McCartney for the incident she said occurred a week ago at his hillside hideaway near Campbelltown, Scotland.

Shipping Is Halted on West Coast

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Civilian cargo shipping ground to a virtual halt today from Seattle to San Diego in the first coastwide strike by longshoremen in 23 years.

"No change," said James Robertson, an official of the employers, Pacific Maritime Association, as the strike entered its second day along the entire West Coast.

"No change," he repeated when asked if either side had made any more toward resuming the negotiations that began last November. In 24 ports between the Canadian and Mexican borders, most of the 15,000 members of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union have been idled.

"We can't lose," said Joe Glick, an ILWU official in Los Angeles. The last ILWU strike, in 1948, lasted 95 days.

The longshoremen are asking higher pay, guaranteed weekly wages and a pension at 62.

Mail, military cargo and passenger baggage continued to be handled by mutual agreement, but all other dock work halted at 8 a.m. Thursday. Negotiations broke off late Wednesday night less than two hours before the ILWU's five-year contract expired at midnight.

Members of the Teamsters Union, often contenders with ILWU locals for the handling of container cargo, refused to cross the picket lines.

Effects of the strike were not expected to show immediately. Heavy shipping operations were carried on in many ports the past month in anticipation of a possible walkout.

Perishable cargo was cleared from ships already docked, and freighters generally have staged an exodus from West Coast ports to avoid getting caught in the tie-up.

ILWU negotiators, headed by 69-year-old President Harry Bridges, seek a two-year contract with 40 hours of wages guaranteed weekly for steady dockers, whether worked or not.

The union cut its demands for $1 an hour wage increase each year to 85 cents the first year and 75 to second over the present base pay of $4.28 an hour. It also seeks a $500 monthly pension for workers with 25 years service retiring at 62.

The employers have not disclosed their offer.

Picket lines were peaceful with no incidents reported.

The strike does not affect Hawaii, where the ILWU has extensive membership on the docks, nor does it extend to Alaska or British Columbia.

Although not included in the strike, Hawaii will feel its effects as shipments from the mainland fall off from their normal West Coast sources unless replaced by other shipments from Gulf and East Coast ports.

Explosion at Newport Fatal to One

NEWPORT, Ark. (AP) — One man was killed and another man was injured seriously in an explosion and fire at a grocery store and a bus station here early this morning.

Police recovered the body of one man inside the rear of the building that housed Warehouse Sales, the food store, which is on Front Street.

Coroner I. D. Dillinger said identity of the dead man has not been determined.

Frank Neely, 33, of Ash Flat, suffered severe burns in the explosion, and was taken to the Veterans Hospital in Little Rock where he was listed in serious condition.

Authorities were searching the ruins of Warehouse and the adjoining Continental Trailways Bus station for a man identified by police as Bobby Sherrill, believed to have been in or near one of the buildings at the time of the blast.

Newport policeman Stanley Montgomery turned in the alarm at 2:20 a.m. after he heard the explosion and saw flames in the buildings. Montgomery said the fire engulfed the buildings in a matter of minutes.

Police reportedly found Neely standing in front of the grocery store when they arrived. Neely reportedly told officials that

$3.5 Billion for Medical Training

By CARL C. CRAFT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Taking what were termed "the first major steps in attacking the nation's health crisis on a systematic basis," the House has passed innovative bills authorizing $3.5 billion for medical training.

With votes of 343 to 3 on a $2.8-billion comprehensive health-manpower measure and 323 to 0 on its companion $710-million nurse-education bill, the House sent the three-year plans Thursday to the Senate—which has a similar package, covering five years and $6.9 billion, on its calendar.

The House-endorsed program, said Chairman Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla., of the public health subcommittee, aims at "shortening the curriculum for physicians, gaining at least five more medical schools, graduating more family doctors, helping financially shaky medical schools, and having doctors go to critical shortage areas."

After inserting provisions

MAIN CONCERN

yen Thi Binh: "If the U.S. government sets a terminal date for the withdrawal from South Vietnam in 1971 of the totality of U.S. forces and those of the other foreign countries in the U.S. camp, the parties will at the same time agree on the ... release of the totality of military men of all parties and of the civilians captured in the war, including American pilots captured in Vietnam so that they may all return rapidly to their homes."

Administration officials have agreed the United States should, at the outset, determine the meaning of the Viet Cong's gesture and whether it indicates a serious intention to negotiate.

Among alternatives U.S. officials say privately are being considered are these three: —The time has come in North Vietnam's mind to negotiate total withdrawal of U.S. forces, including advisers, out of the South.

—Recent defeat of congressional efforts to legislate a withdrawal has led Hanoi to attempt to pump new blood into the antiwar drive in the United States.

—The peace plan may be an effort to generate bad feelings between the United States and the Saigon government at a time of the impending South Vietnamese presidential election.

Beyond the troop withdrawal-prisoner release part of the plan, the United States found other elements in the seven points more obviously troublesome.

A Viet Cong demand restated Wednesday is that "the United States government must ... stop the policy of 'Vietnamization' of the war."

Mrs. Binh also repeated her oft-stated demand for a coalition government which, in the minds of the Nixon administration, means a try at ultimately controlling the South.

While not going into detail, presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the United States will continue to reject any proposal that would turn "17 million South Vietnamese over to the Communists."

LBJ Against Attack on N. Vietnam

By SPENCER DAVIS

Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Four months after taking office President Lyndon B. Johnson turned down recommendations to move against North Vietnam as premature, the secret Pentagon papers disclose.

However, he called for building a strong military and political base in South Vietnam for possible later action against the North.

The documents, made public by Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, say that Johnson on March 17, 1964, told Saigon Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge:

"Our planning for action against the North is on a contingency basis at present, and the immediate problem in this area is to develop the strongest possible military and political base for possible later action."

Both presidential adviser McGeorge Bundy and policy planner Walt W. Rostow were urging Johnson to combine military pressure against North Vietnam with pacification efforts in the South.

Bundy urged "selected and carefully graduated military force against North Vietnam." During the same period Lodge's successor, Maxwell Taylor, was expressing fears the South Vietnamese government might collapse or be replaced by neutralists.

By September 1964, after a series of coups had shaken the Saigon government, Taylor reported to the White House that the Saigon government "would probably be incapable of galvanizing the people ..."

But, added Taylor, "If we leave Vietnam with our tail between our legs the consequences of this defeat in the rest of Asia, Africa and Latin America would be disastrous."

Taylor returned to Saigon from consultations with President Johnson in November 1964 with this proposal:

"With respect to Laos, the U.S. government is prepared in conjunction with the Royal Lao government, to add U.S. airpower as needed to restrict the use of Laotian territory as a route of infiltration into South Vietnam. With respect to the sea, the U.S. government would favor an intensification of those covert maritime operations which have proved their usefulness in harassing the enemy."

Boyle Sees No Reason
Why Christmas Season
Can't Start on July 4

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Merry Christmas!

What's this—Santa Claus in July?

Well, why not? Only old fogies and spoilsports want to cramp the jolly yuletide season.

It used to start soon after we caught our breath after celebrating Thanksgiving Day. Now Thanksgiving and Pilgrim fathers are only footnotes to the swelling pageantry of Christmas, which is becoming a year-long industry.

The wise shopper—if he didn't buy all his Christmas presents at the Washington Birthday sales last February—will be able to get plenty of last-minute bargains over the Fourth of July holiday weekend.

It may seem odd to try to team up Santa Claus and Uncle Sam, but, after all, odd couples are in vogue nowadays.

Anyway, what with the population explosion, the work is piling up for the Jolly Old Saint and it takes him longer to get it done.

So if you want to be sure old Santa reads your letter and still has time to get the presents you ask for, you'd better write him now in July.

Here's what I'm asking him to bring:

A "not secret" stamp for government officials to mark on official documents which nobody but the printer will read anyway.

Something in metal from Ft. Knox.

A right number from the telephone company.

A pension from my draft board.

A free tooth from my dentist.

An interesting new wonder drug. It's called money, is guaranteed to cure most cases of depression, and has no bad side effects.

A wallet that will self-destruct 10 seconds after a mugger takes it from a victim. The mugger will be turned into ashes too.

A film so clean that my 83-year-old mother can take me to without either of us worrying about having to explain to the other what it's all about.

A boy friend for my teen-age daughter whose hair doesn't look like a mop covered with long fishing worms.

A deflatable inflation.

An official government misinformation official to weed out any unofficial information that might creep into any official misinformational announcements.

"Blessed shall be your basket and your kneading trough. Blessed shall you be when you come in, and blessed shall you be when you go out."—Deut. 28: 6.

About SS

If you have any questions regarding social security, send them to the social security office, box 1319, Texarkana, Texas, Attention: Glenda Bozeman.

Q. My husband is 66, disabled and drawing social security. I am 57 and have been working. Can I draw social security now since I have to look after him, and cannot work?

A. No. Unless there are minor children at home, a wife must be 62 to qualify for wife's benefits. You also have to be at least 62 to qualify for benefits on your own record, unless you are disabled.

Q. As a Federal Government employee, I didn't pay social security. But I did work part time for a number of years in a department store at Christmas time. Would I be eligible for social security benefits on this seasonal work?

A. Your Christmas work could qualify you for monthly benefits. Call or visit your social security office to find out for sure.

Q. I will be 65 soon and am now working only part time. I am afraid that I will lose my part-time job if my employer finds out how old I am. Can I apply for monthly social security benefits and Medicare without my present employer finding out?

A. Yes, you can. When you apply for benefits, the people at the social security office will ask if you mind if they contact your present employer about your wages for this year. If you do not want them to contact him, they won't.

Q. I have been getting monthly social security disability benefits for the past 2 years. A friend of mine has offered me a part-time job. I am not sure I could do this type of work, but I would like to try it. Would I lose my disability benefits if I take it?

A. No. Under the social security law, disability beneficiaries who work despite severe handicaps can continue to be paid their monthly benefit while they are testing their ability to work. However, if you should start to work, be sure to notify your social security office.

Q. My 67-year-old husband recently had surgery for a slipped disc. He will soon be able to come home, but the doctor says he will need to use a wheelchair. Will Medicare help pay for a wheelchair?

A. Yes. The medical insurance part of Medicare does help pay for the rental or purchase of such durable medical equipment as a wheelchair when the equipment is prescribed by a doctor. Whether your husband decides to purchase or rent the equipment, Medicare generally makes monthly payments and these payments are 80 percent of the reasonable rental charges.

Dr. Leary
Held in Switzerland

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — Swiss authorities are holding LSD advocate Timothy Leary for extradition to the United States.

A Justice Ministry spokesman said today that Leary, who escaped 10 months ago from a California prison where he was serving a sentence for marijuana possession, was arrested Wednesday at the request of the U.S. Embassy.

The spokesman said Leary was arrested at Villars sur Ollon, in the Lake Geneva area, and was taken to a jail in Lausanne. His wife was with him but was not taken into custody.

Authorities in Europe said the former Harvard lecturer was en route from Algeria to Geneva when arrested.

Leary, 50, was taken into "provisional custody for extradition" and was not charged with any violation in Switzerland, the spokesman said. He added that Leary can be held for two months while the extradition request is awaited.

In California, a spokesman for Gov. Ronald Reagan said the required papers would be forwarded to the U.S. State Department.

SHE'S A REAL GASSER

Dear Helen:

My wife has a terrible habit of belching after every meal. I wouldn't mind if she just said, "Excuse me," and let it go, but she feels compelled to make an excuse, like "Artichokes make me belch, Lemon pie makes me burp" ...as if she has no control over what happens.

Is there some way I could get her to take responsibility for the noise or better yet, stop?—RINGING EARS

Dear R.E.:

(Your wife sounds like a real gasser.)

If a package of antacid mints doesn't help, then your doctor might suggest that swallowed air produces more after dinner music than artichokes, pie, etc. (Or maybe she just enjoys belching.)—H.

Dear Helen:

When my daughter stopped wearing a bra, I was upset, but adjusted because she doesn't have a very big bust. But recently I found out she hasn't been wearing underpants either! I questioned her, and she said, "I like to feel free."

Don't you think this is going a little far? —MOTHER OF A COLLEGE GIRL

Dear Mother:

Probably.—H.

Dear Helen:

Although I can't give real names, this letter is obviously pointed towards someone. And I hope he realizes who he is!

To Someone:

You told my husband that you wished your wife was more like me. Whatever kind of wife I am, it's all because of the kind of husband HE is.

Deming Gets His Share in Can. Open

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
MONTREAL (AP) — Rolf Deming is a former mathematics instructor at the University of Minnesota who admits to "an aversion against adding up large numbers."

He didn't have to Thursday. The addition came to 67, five under par, and gave the relative newcomer to the golf tour a share of the first round lead in the $150,000 Canadian Open Tournament.

Deming, 31, but only two years on the pro tour, was tied at that figure with four veterans Rod Funseth, Phil Rodgers and Lou Graham going into today's second round in the chase for the $30,000 first prize.

Canadian George Knudson and little Rod Curl were one stroke back at 68. Veteran Lionel Hebert and Canadian Ben Kern headed a group of seven at 69, three under par on the 6,920-yard Richelleu Golf Club course.

Arnold Palmer, one of the favorites despite a balky putter, was at 70. But the 41-year-old giant still had his problems on the greens, three-putting twice and using 34 putts.

South African Gary Player and United States Open King Lee Trevino had even more difficulties and were well back at 73.

Deming, a pleasant, hard-working player, hasn't come close to winning in his brief time on the tour. His best finish was a tie for fourth in the satellite Azalea Open.

He didn't make expenses last season, has won only $7,500 this season and admitted he has been "scraping the bottom of the barrel a couple times" after his sponsors had given up on him.

Deming served for two years as a mathematics instructor at Minnesota while working on an advanced degree, then gave it up to take a club job for five years.

He chipped in from off the green for two of his birdies, needed only 26 putts and said it is "one of the luckiest days I've ever had in golf."

Christian Softball Action

In last night's Christian Athletic Association softball action, First Baptist downed 5th and Grady Church of Christ 12 to four. There were no homers in the game.

In the second game of the night, First Assembly of God was blanked 7-0 by Unity Baptist. Harvey Fullerton and Tommy Overton homered for Unity. Fullerton also pitched the first shutout in league play this season.

Red Sox Alive and Kicking Again

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
The on-again, off-again race in the American League East is on again.

The Boston Red Sox, given up for dead a week ago, are back on their roller coaster, going at full tilt and bearing down on the dragging Baltimore Orioles.

Rico Petrocelli of the Red Sox and Cleveland's Vada Pinson provided the latest ups and downs Thursday night with ninth inning home runs that pulled Boston within 2½ games of Baltimore, a surprising turn of events.

Petrocelli's homer, a three-run shot with one out in the ninth, sent the Red Sox winging past Detroit 8-7 for their seventh consecutive victory, about one hour after Pinson's blast with two out in the ninth gave the Indians a 3-2 conquest of the Orioles.

Now, after starting the season behind the heavily-favored Orioles, then overtaking them only to fall back again, Boston's latest upswing has put new fire into the race.

The same can't be said in the West where the Kansas City Royals beat the California Angels 7-2 and still stand a distant 9½ games behind the idle leader, Oakland.

In other AL games, Washington trimmed the New York Yankees 3-1 and the Chicago White Sox stopped Milwaukee 6-4.

In the National League, San Francisco outslug St. Louis 8-7, Pittsburgh blanked the New York Mets 3-0 and Atlanta overcame Montreal 7-3 in the afternoon and Cincinnati beat Philadelphia 5-1 and Los Angeles nudged San Diego 2-1 at night.

Petrocelli's 12th homer into the upper left field deck came after Luis Aparicio was hit by a pitch and Reggie Smith singled, and marked the second time in the final two innings Boston came from behind.

Two runs on a ground out and pinch-hitter Phil Gagliano's single had pulled the Sox even 5-5 in the eighth. But Detroit went right back ahead on run-scoring singles by Dick McAuliffe and Al Kaline in its half of the inning.

Then Petrocelli sent the Red Sox winging again, only one week after they had fallen eight games behind the Orioles and appeared lost.

But it's been that kind of season for them, dropping 3½ games back of Baltimore in mid-April, then putting together five-and six-game winning streaks to go four games ahead in late May. Then they lost five in a row and four straight and found themselves eight back before this latest spurge.

Meanwhile, the Orioles sank to their sixth defeat in eight games after appearing to have things well in hand as Jim Palmer took a 2-0 lead into the eighth on Frank Robinson's homer and Don Buford's run-scoring single off Sam McDowell.

But Frank Baker doubled in two runs with two out to tie the game in the eighth, and then Pinson unloaded.

Palmer, who struck out 13, and McDowell, who fanned 11, each left after eight innings.

Arms Otis did the heavy hitting for Kansas City, belting a two-run homer, his 13th, in the first inning and doubling in one of four runs in the ninth. Dick Drago ran his record to 8-3 with a six-hitter as he beat the Angels for the third time this season with a complete game.

Washington's Jim Shellenback kept the Yankees as his personal favorites as he set them down on four hits for his third complete game triumph against them, all his victories this season to go with four losses. Don Mincher singled in two Senators' runs as two errors by shortstop Gene Michael set up all three.

Bill Melton singled and doubled for two runs and Rich Morales homered and put on a squeeze play for two more as the White Sox jumped on Marty Pattin, building a 5-1 lead. The victory put the Sox in fifth place in the West and dropped the Brewers into the cellar.

Pittsburgh Downs Mets; 3-0 Score

By ED SCHUYLER Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer
It rained on the Pittsburgh pitching parade but the much-battered Pirate staff marched home with a shutout.

The Pirates, who had yielded 54 runs in their nine previous games, blanked the New York Mets 3-0 Thursday on the combined efforts of four pitchers in a game that was delayed a total of an hour and 16 minutes and ended up as a twilight affair.

The victory—his 11th straight and 13 in 16 decisions—went to Dock Ellis, the tender-elbowed right-hander who was knocked out by the second rain delay after five innings.

In other National League action, Cincinnati swamped Philadelphia 5-1 in a night game that was delayed 2:05 by rain, San Francisco edged St. Louis 8-7, Atlanta took Montreal 7-3 and Houston and the Chicago Cubs were not scheduled.

In the American League, Cleveland nipped Baltimore 3-2, Washington edged the New York Yankees 3-1, the Chicago White Sox downed Milwaukee 6-4, Boston tripped Detroit 8-7 and Kansas City walloped California 9-4.

Minnesota and Oakland were not scheduled.

The Pirates' combined five-hit victory, in which Willie Stargell drove in his 80th run of the season, lifted them to a three-game lead over the Mets in the NL East.

"His elbow hasn't been real strong the last three or four times out, so I had to lift him after the second delay," Murtagh said of his removal of Ellis, the winningest pitcher in the league, who gave up two hits. Each of the first two delays were 20 minutes.

Jim Nelson relieved Ellis and ran into trouble when the Mets loaded the bases on two singles and a walk with two out. Nelson Briles marched out of the bullpen to end the inning.

Giusti, getting his 16th save, stopped the Mets in the seventh, waited out a 36 minutes rain delay and then allowed

THURSDAY'S STARS
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
PITCHING — Jim McGlothlin, Reds, waited out a two hour rain delay and completed a four-hitter as Cincinnati beat Philadelphia 5-1.

BATTING — Ralph Garr, Braves, slammed two triples and two singles, driving in three runs and scoring two to lift Atlanta to a 7-3 triumph over Montreal.

On the other hand, Lyudmila Braghina and Tamara Pangolova of the Soviet Union have run 1,500 meters faster than just one hit in finishing up. When it wasn't raining in Philadelphia, Cincinnati's Jim McGlothlin was mopping up the Phillies.

The rain delay came in the third inning after Willie Montanez homered for the Phillies. When play resumed it was all Cincinnati, with the Reds getting McGlothlin all the runs he needed with two in the fourth.

West-leading San Francisco rode a big second inning and the hitting of Bobby Bonds.

Bonds and Tito Fuentes each singled home two runs in the Giants' six-run second and then after Ken Henderson broke a 6-6 tie with an RBI single in the sixth, Bonds doubled home what proved to be the winner.

Joe Torre and Lou Brock homered for St. Louis.

Atlanta ripped Montreal with a four-run ninth inning that was keyed by rookie Ralph Garr's second triple of the game. Garr also rapped two singles.

Felix Millan snapped a 3-3 tie with a single, then Garr, who had tripled in an earlier run, tripled home two more and scored on Mike Lum's double. Bob Bailey homered for Montreal.

Don Sutton pitched a five-hitter for his fourth consecutive victory and Richie Allen and Wes Parker drove in fifth inning runs to give Los Angeles its victory.

US Aims to Lead Soviet Team

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — United States men's track and field forces aim to build a solid lead over the Russians today and avoid a repeat of the defeat they suffered last year in the Soviet Union.

Coach Dave Maggard's team counts heavily on the 100-meter dash, which the United States did not win last year, the 110-meter high hurdles, the pole vault and the shot put during the opening program of the USA-USSR World All-Star Meet at the University of California's Edwards Stadium.

Scoring will be on a dual meet basis between the United States and Russia, and the United States and the All-Stars.

The Russians objected to a play for a triangular meet scoring system, and it was abandoned.

In the Men's competition, most observers figure the meet will be close, with an advantage to the Russians in the gal's division.

The World All-Stars, with some great individual performers, are not figures as strong over-all.

Dr. Delano Meriwether, the 28-year-old hematologist, and Jim Green provided the United States speed in the 100, facing Russia's Valery Borzov, who won the event a year ago, and Aleksandr Korneliuk.

Rod Milburn, who last week cracked the world record with a 13.0 in the 120-yard high hurdles, and Ron Draper, who placed second to Milburn in the collegiate and AAU championships, are favored strongly in the 110-meter high hurdles.

Jan Johnson and Dave Roberts hold the hopes in the pole vault. Johnson, the 1970 NCAA champion from Kansas, won the AAU meet last week, clearing 17 feet. Roberts, of Rice, had the same height but more misses getting to it.

Russia's vaulters, Yuriy Isakov and Gennadiy Gusev, have bettered 17 with Isakov holding the Russian record at 17-5. Both Johnson and Roberts have gone higher than that.

World shot put record holder Randy Matson was so upset when he lost the AAU championship that he returned to the ring late in the evening to work on his form last Saturday.

Matson, with a lifetime world record best of 71-5½, teams with Karl Saib of Kansas, the collegiate and AAU champion, facing Romas Plunge and Valeriy and Volkin of Russia.

Saib has thrown 67-2¼, while the Russians have best marks of 63-7 and 64-2½ respectively.

Today's program lists five decathlon events plus 10 finals for the men and seven for the women.

In the women's 100, both Iris Davis of Tennessee State and Pat Hawkins of Brooklyn have better times than Nadyezhda Besfamiliyaya and Marina Nikiforova of Russia.

On the other hand, Lyudmila Braghina and Tamara Pangolova of the Soviet Union have run 1,500 meters faster than

Stan Smith Underdog at Wimbledon

By GEOFFREY MILLER
WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Stan Smith, the lanky soldier from Pasadena, Calif., will face John Newcombe Saturday in a bid to break Australia's hold on the Wimbledon tennis title. But he will be the underdog.

Most players and critics predict the final could be a long match, with sets perhaps going to 8-8 and a tie-breaker. Newcombe is favored to win for the third time in five years.

Australians have won the title nine times in eleven years.

Ken Rosewall, the little 36-year-old Australian master who lost 1-6 1-6 3-6 to Newcombe in the semifinals Thursday said "Smith is a dangerous player and he must have a chance. But Newcombe is much safer off the ground, and I make him favorite to win."

Smith reached the final Thursday with a 6-3, 8-6, 6-2 victory over Tom Gorman of Seattle, Wash., who was handicapped by a back injury.

Today was women's finals day.

Fans slept all night on the sidewalks outside the All England club, hoping to see Evonne Goolagong, the 19-year-old Australian, dethrone the reigning queen, Mrs. Margaret Smith Court.

If Mrs. Court wins today and Newcombe wins Saturday they will make Wimbledon history. Since the challenge round was abolished in 1922, and the champion has had to play through from the first round, the two reigning singles champions have never retained their titles in the same year.

Hollywood Derby Is Saturday

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer
INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Twelve 3-year-olds are entered in Saturday's $100,000-added Hollywood Derby, an event which includes fine competition between the horses as well as a clash between people personalities.

Two of the youngsters flew out from New York for this 31st running of the 1¼ mile Hollywood fixture. One was William A. Levin's Bold Reason, the other Frank J. Caldwell's Jim French.

The latter is trained by a portly John Campo, admittedly an up-from-the-sidewalks of New York character. Last April Campo, on short notice, flew Jim French out for the Santa Anita Derby.

Jim French won with room to spare, beating among others the best out here, Unconscious.

The observations by the outspoken Campo in the post-race talk still rankles in the minds of horsemen out here.

Beating the sophomores at Santa Anita wasn't much, said Campo, because there wasn't much to beat. He never had a doubt Jim French would win etc. etc.

Campo's evaluation, if not his diplomacy, still may be correct. There is no clear-cut saandout colt in California.

There may be several who can make it interesting for Jim French and his trainer, including Richard Buc's Crimson Clem, Frank McMahon's Triple Bend, Liangollen Farm's Restless Runner, or Dr. Knighton from C.W. Smith's Hillsdale Stable.

Others entered are High and Mighty, My Little Man, Tim

Robert M. Cook of Fulton is shown here with one of his large stalks of Big Boy Tomatoes. The stalks are about seven feet high and Cook has about twenty of them. Each stalk has about twenty tomatoes which weigh about one-half pound each.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB
Burning Sensation May Be Nerves

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Something very strange is happening to me. The tips of my fingers get burning hot. The first time it happened I thought I had burned myself, because my husband's pipe was on the counter at the time I placed my hand there. But now it's more frequent and happens just any time. What is it? I also have varicose veins and arthritis. Should I see a doctor or is it one of those things if I ignore it it will go away?

Dear Reader—Yes, I think you should see a doctor. The burning sensation is probably secondary to irritation of the nerves. Sometimes changes in the vertebrae in the neck can cause pressure on the nerves that go to the fingers and cause burning. Any point between the spinal cord and the hand where pressure is exerted can cause this type of problem. Arthritis of the neck could be a cause. Even changes in the tendons at the wrist (called a carpal tunnel syndrome) can cause it.

Sleeping habits are sometimes responsible—the person who sleeps with the arms above the head in such a way that the nerves are under pressure or stretched. When iron beds were common some people would grasp the rods at the head of the bed. This would cause pressure on blood vessels and the nerves to the hand. Occasionally such a person would come to the doctor with atrophy of some of the muscles in the hands.

The only thing to do, is have your doctor do a good examination to see if there is any cause for pressure that can be found.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I am a 13-year-old girl and in the eighth grade. The reason I am writing is because I weigh 180 and am five feet tall. Can you suggest anything that I can do?

Dear Reader—You are right to start doing something about this now. You probably should have a checkup by a doctor or even an endocrinologist (a specialist in gland functions) to be certain you don't have a medical problem like low function of the thyroid gland located in the neck. Usually the weight problem is caused by too many calories and not enough exercise.

Often it is not how much you eat but what you eat that makes the difference. Try to eliminate as much fat and sweets from your diet as possible, cut down on bread if you are eating it and start a regular walking program each day in addition to your other activities. Perhaps you can build up to doing some regular sport you might like—tennis would be a good game to learn. If you follow this program faithfully EVERY DAY it should help you a great deal.

YOU MIGHT SAY she has a head for music. A mini-skirted musician made good use of her guitar case when an unexpected shower drenched a Rome street.

THOUGHTS

For all our days pass away under thy watch, our years come to an end like a sigh. —Psalms 90:9.

Finish every day and be done with it. You have done what you could; some blunders and absurdities crept in; forget them as soon as you can. Tomorrow is a new day. You shall begin it well and serenely and with too high a spirit to be encumbered with your old nonsense.—Ralph Waldo Emerson, philosopher.

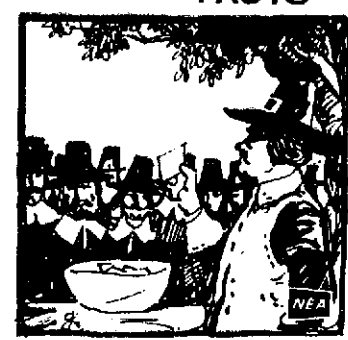

Why not two full shares? Because a six per cent broker's commission, plus a small sum to the odd-lot dealer, would likely keep your $40 from covering the full two-share price.

MIP isn't the best of all possible investing plans, but it isn't the worst, either. It provides the kind of forced saving arrangement so many of us require. And it does provide a way into the stock market for those with little chance to make it otherwise.

When things began to turn sour in the market a couple of years ago, the New York Stock Exchange quit advertising MIP. Declining prices massive bookkeeping problems, and a general disaffection for investors with little money gave Wall Street little reason to push the plan along.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

New Amsterdam's burghers aided the poor by a lottery, awarding Bibles to the winners in 1655. The World Almanac notes that public lotteries often replaced taxation, raising funds for colleges, schools in colonial America. Colonial lawmakers, however, regarded private lotteries as "pernicious."

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Our old friend, Generous George, is back with us after a five-year absence occasioned by his generosity in selling some gold bricks at half-price. That is, half-price for gold but very high for what the bricks actually were made of.

He beamed on West and said, "I'm going to let you hold this first trick out of the goodness of my heart." West remembered George from before, gritted his teeth and led a second spade.

George said, "I'm afraid I have to win this one." Then George discarded the deuce of diamonds on the ace of spades.

After this start, it was a simple matter for George to play ace and another diamond to ruff high. Then a club to the nine and another diamond ruff set up dummy's last three diamonds. Two more trump leads took care of West's trumps and George was able to discard three of his hearts. He had to give West the last trick but he scored game and rubber.

George had been about as generous as a man giving ice to an Eskimo in mid-winter. If he had won the first trick, he would have had no way to keep East from getting in with a diamond. Then, if East had led a heart, his partner would cash two heart tricks and save the rubber.

Oh, yes. George's play has a name. It's called an avoidance play. It avoids letting the dangerous hand get the lead.

The bidding has been:
West North East South
1 ♠ 1 ♥ 1 ♠ 2 ♥
3 ♦ 3 ♥ 4 ♦ ?

You, South, hold:
♠ A 9 4 3 ♥ Q 7 6 2 ♦ 4 3 ♣ 9 6 3

What do you do now?
A—Bid four hearts. You can afford to compete further in this sequence.

TODAY'S QUESTION
You had four hearts. West and North pass. East bids four spades. What do you do now?

QUICK QUIZ

Q—Is the Black Forest in Germany really a forest?
A—No. It is a mountain range so thickly overgrown with trees that it is called a forest rather than a mountain.
Q—What planet has rings around it?
A—Saturn's three rings are unique in our solar system. No other planet has anything like them.

There's a new bulk delivery system that will save $8 to 9 million a year; a $100 million research program next year; and a new management training programs, among other things.

"The real problem," Blount said, "is the short fuse of the American public. The post office is no panacea—it has to be run by people—but many Americans can't buy this. They say, 'You've had this new operation going for six months, so why the hell haven't you fixed it?'"

"Americans don't give the post office the credit it deserves. The postal system handles 87 billion pieces of mail a year. Do you see that even if we were 99.9 per cent perfect, we'd still get 87 million complaints?"

Blount is a tall, lean man and what remains of the red hair that earned his nickname is short and slick. He lives in Georgetown with his wife and children. Apart from his tennis matches with the Vice President, he also is a skier and a licensed business jet aircraft pilot.

A native of Union Springs, Ala., he attended Staunton (Va.) Military Academy, the University of Alabama and served in the Army Air Corps in World War II.

His construction business, Blount Brothers, has worked on some of the most complicated facilities of the space age, including moon rocket launch facilities at Cape Kennedy.

Another brother is running the business in Alabama while Blount earns $60,000 a year as postmaster general. It's a considerable cut in salary, to be sure, but Blount says he doesn't mind.

"I think this is a very exciting kind of thing," he said (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

An Unlikely Revolutionary

By LEE MUELLER

NEW YORK—(NEA)—In the beginning, Winton M. (Red) Blount was not unlike every other postmaster general the United States has known. His position was a political plum, a cabinet appointment for services rendered. President of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and a man who made millions operating an Alabama construction business, Blount's knowledge of the U.S. mails centered mostly around his ability to lick a stamp.

The way he tells it, Blount received notice of his appointment in the traditional Nixonian manner—at the Alabama-Auburn football game in Birmingham after the 1968 election.

"The Post Office Department?" he asked, eyebrows arched over a thin, amused mouth. "How in the world did they think of that?"

No one is quite sure. Maybe it was because, at age 25, Blount started with four pieces of war-surplus construction equipment in Montgomery and built up a multimillion dollar business. (Surely, the Post Office Department could appreciate that kind of talent.) Maybe it was merely because Vice President Agnew would need someone with whom to play tennis. Whatever the reason, Blount moved to Washington and spearheaded what has become a full-scale postal revolution.

Fourteen days after assuming the role (sic) in 1969, Blount quietly suggested that perhaps service in the 32,000 U.S. Post Offices might be improved if politics were removed as a consideration in appointing postmasters and rural carriers. It was like suggesting to M. Rothschild that his businesses would fare better if he stopped employing his family. Across the nation, postal pillars shook. But it was only the beginning.

Now the U.S. postal system has undergone its most significant reforms since trains took over from the Pony Express. As of July 1, Blount, 49, is no longer a cabinet member, but postmaster general and chairman of the Board of Governors for the new, corporate-style United States Postal Service.

Among other things, removing the postmaster general from the cabinet allows for a continuity of management. In the past, the post not only changed with administrations, but frequently during administrations.

"The real title of the office should have been political general of the cabinet," said a postal service spokesman. "And if politics weren't going right, the postmaster general was the most dispensable member of the cabinet."

There have been 37 presidents of the United States and Blount is the 59th postmaster general. If he holds the office through 1971, he will be the longest-running postmaster general since Arthur Summerfield, who served eight years under Eisenhower.

"It already seems like 25 years instead of just 30 months," said Blount, smiling.

At the moment, you see, the revolution is not going so well.

Recently, a convicted mail thief created considerable furor by telling a Senate subcommittee it was easy for his gang to steal more than $100 million in loosely guarded jewelry, furs and securities—and occasionally a secret government document—at major U.S. airports.

Sen. Charles Percy (R-Ill.) even suggested that perhaps the Pentagon papers might have been sold to The New York Times after being stolen from the mails.

The postal service is fighting airport theft with a new program it calls "Con-Con," which provides armed guards for high-value mail shipments. There has been only one theft since the program was instituted, Blount said.

There are no plans, he points out, to separate classified government material from other registered mail pouches, but there is plenty of action elsewhere.

"We're getting ready to announce a set of standards by which we'll operate," Blount said. The mailman's motto notwithstanding, this has not been done previously.

There's a new bulk delivery system that will save $8 to 9 million a year; a $100 million research program next year; and a new management training programs, among other things.

"The real problem," Blount said, "is the short

Would Expand Educational Television

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Frank Pace, chairman of the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, said Thursday the educational television potential had not been "remotely tested."

"I am deeply committed to the thought that Arkansas must move forward in this area," Pace, a former Arkansan, added.

The firm's president, John Macy Jr., and Pace were introduced along with Lee Reeves, director of ETV in Arkansas, at a news conference by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark.

The Arkansas system reaches about 50 per cent of the state's population. The cost of expanding the coverage to all of the state would be about $855,000, Reeves said.

Pace said educational television was "particularly adapted" to Arkansas. "It can provide educational opportunities to persons who can't be reached by an investment in brick and mortar," he said.

Peace Makers Seek "Better Way Out"

WASHINGTON (AP) — Trying to settle a subpoena dispute over "The Selling of the Pentagon" without a full House showdown, congressional peace-makers are seeking what one calls "a better way out of this mess than an unfortunate high noon on the floor."

In what could cause another court clash between government and the news media following the Pentagon-papers publication fight, the House Commerce Committee recommended Thursday that the Columbia Broadcasting System and its president, Frank Stanton, be held in contempt of Congress.

But the full committee split 25 to 13 in favor of the leadership-sponsored attempt to punish the network for refusing to supply raw material gathered during preparation of the news documentary.

"I'm awfully sorry this occurred; this confrontation should never have taken place," Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., said as he announced the action taken at a closed committee session.

At this point, compromise-seekers say their admittedly delicate contacts with both sides, to encourage an easier settlement, are keyed to keeping the case from debate on the floor—with political risks of either a tight vote or even unprecedented rejection of a contempt recommendation.

Furthermore, saying they feel some leaders would prefer avoiding a direct confrontation between Congress and the broadcasting industry, accommodation-advocating congressmen consider Staggers has made his point and has substantial backing for possible new laws against deceptive practices.

Defending again his decision to refuse the subpoena demands, Stanton said in a statement issued in New York he hopes the House "will not confirm a citation of contempt which, though directed at CBS, is in effect taking dead aim against the 1st Amendment."

But Staggers repeated his argument that the 1st Amendment press freedom is not an issue in his attempts to obtain material edited from the program. The documentary criticized Pentagon public-relations spending.

Staggers contends the network must supply so-called outtakes for study in connection with charges that electronic manipulation rearranged questions and answers.

If the citation move is brought to the floor as expected within the next few weeks, it would be the first time the House faced a request to hold a television network or one of its officials in contempt. Veteran congressional observers and a House historian could recall no case involving a newspaper or newsmen being cited for contempt over the free-press issue.

Generally, the House goes along with committee requests that contempt charges be pressed. If the House approves and the Justice Department prosecutes, conviction in court could bring maximum punishment of a year in prison and $1,000 fine.

AP News Digest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration's immediate concern over the newest Viet Cong peace plan appears not so much whether to accept or reject, but to determine the motive behind the proposal.

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Carl Albert, citing confidential information from President Nixon, says "things are moving" in the administration effort to end the war.

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command disclosed today that American fighter-bombers attacked gun positions in North Vietnam's half of the demilitarized zone two days ago.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four months after taking office President Lyndon B. Johnson turned down recommendations to move against North Vietnam as premature, the secret Pentagon papers disclose, however they say he did call for building a strong military and political base in South Vietnam for possible later action against the North.

MOSCOW (AP) — The bodies of the three Soyuz 11 cosmonauts were cremated during the night in preparation for a heroes' funeral later today in Red Square.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Civilian cargo shipping ground to a virtual halt today from Seattle to San Diego in the first coastwide strike by longshoremen in 23 years.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Trying to settle a subpoena dispute over the CBS news documentary "The Selling of the Pentagon" without a full House showdown, congressional peace-makers are seeking what one calls "a better way out of this mess than an unfortunate high noon on the floor."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Taking what were termed "the first major steps in attacking the nation's health crisis on a systematic basis," the House has passed innovative bills authorizing $3.5 billion for medical training.

Gov. Meets With Welfare Rights Group

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers met for almost an hour Thursday with representatives of a welfare rights organization which has complaints about service at the University of Arkansas Medical Center.

Mrs. Gloria Benson of Arkansas Community Organizations for Reform Now (ACORN) said the governor expressed interest in establishing a consumer board to hear patient complaints and recommend policy changes.

She said Bumpers planned to discuss the complaints with Dr. James Dennis, chief administrator of the medical center.

The group has complained that patients must wait too long for treatment, that doctors and nurses are rude, that the pharmacy should stay open at night and that fees for medical services should be lower.

3 Trapped in Sunken Submarine

GOSPORT, England (AP) — Three submariners trapped in the torpedo room of their sunken ship early today talked on the telephone, played cards and listened to records while the Royal Navy worked to free them.

Rescue teams early this morning righted the stricken 1,120-ton Artemis in the thick mud of England's south coast, and the three men shot to the surface through an escape hatch after a 10-hour ordeal.

Leading Mechanical Engineer Robert Croxon, 22, Chief Petty Officer David Guest, 36, and Mechanical Engineer Donald Beckett, 24, all were reported well after a checkup.

The Artemis, a 25-year-old conventionally powered sub, was sunk in 30 feet of water alongside a dock, and salvage men said all but her forward compartment was believed flooded. But they had several lines around her and anticipated little difficulty in raising her.

The Artemis was moored alongside the submarine Ocelot at the sub base near the entrance to Portsmouth harbor Thursday night when, with no previous indication of trouble, the Artemis suddenly dropped below the surface. Twelve men leaped off as their ship plummeted to the bottom.

"The first thing I knew," said 23-year-old Alan Turvey, "I heard a rushing noise and looked over the side to see the water frothing up. I didn't have time to think—I just made a leap for the jetty."

Croxon, Guest and Beckett couldn't get out as the water flooded in. They sealed themselves in the forward torpedo room, illuminated by dim emergency lighting.

"Sit tight and keep your spirits up—you'll soon be out," they were told over an underwater telephone link from the neighboring Ocelot.

Divers snaked two lines around the Artemis, which was lying stern-down in the mud with a 45-degree list. The rescue crews hauled the ship to an even keel, and hope to haul her to the surface, but the Ocelot was jammed in the way, and the mud was sucking the Artemis down deeper. The Navy decided the men had to get wet.

Dressed in coveralls with thick white sweaters, they shot five feet above the surface in a rush of released air and bubbles.

An official inquiry began today, but a Navy spokesman said sabotage was not suspected. In 1954, there was a sabotage attempt on board the Artemis when a stoker was accused of putting signal grenades in the engine.

Papers Shed No Light on How War Has Come to Where It Is Now

SAIGON (AP) — For all their fascinating detail on the origins of U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war, the Pentagon Papers cast little light on how the war has come to where it is now. In the three years since they were written, the conflict has undergone radical changes.

The most important was a reversal of U.S. policy that began the withdrawal of American combat forces while the Vietnamization program imposed a greater share of fighting on the South Vietnamese.

Another was the spread of open hostilities into Cambodia in 1970 and Laos in 1971, geographical expansions of the war that the Nixon administration gambled would also shorten it.

Despite these sweeping developments and the general disaffection of the United States with Vietnam, many Vietnamese and the some Americans in Indochina have an unsettling sense of repetition about the present situation.

Col. David Hackworth, a much-decorated Army officer with 5½ years in Vietnam as combat leader and senior adviser, sees the military situation reverting in the next two years to where it was in 1963-65. The South Vietnamese in 1965 were losing a battalion a week. Hackworth's appraisal is that after the allies pull out, the Saigon forces will again face a bloody and probably losing battle against a superior enemy.

Apparently beset by some of the same fears, President Nguyen Van Thieu predicts a "major confrontation" between North and South Vietnamese forces in late 1972 or early 1973, after most allied forces have gone.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the U.S. commander in Vietnam, is said to share this view. In the rumor-mill coffee houses along Saigon's Tu Do Street, some current speculation has a strong early 1960s flavor. It centers on the possibilities of a political coup before the Oct. 3 election or, perhaps more likely, afterward—regardless of who wins.

Serious Western observers tend to discount this kind of political talk. The prevailing view is that only Thieu has a chance to win the election, and that no body has a chance of overthrowing him. Even so, the wisest observers know enough of Vietnam's history to concede the possibility.

The government's control over population has continued to increase. The last report, based on the controversial hamlet evaluation system developed by U.S. officials, said Saigon had relative security over 94 per cent of the country's 18 million people.

Their morale raised by the Cambodian drive of spring 1970, the ARVN—Army of the Republic of Vietnam—and other regular units took severe casualties and some sharp morale setbacks in the drive into the Laos Panhandle last February and March.

Cambodia proved a success in the long run because it broke up enemy supplies and battle plans for most of a year. But experts say Hanoi now appears to have restored to strength many of its seasoned units in that country, and the South Vietnamese, even with continued U.S. air support, are finding the going heavy.

"Name a battle in which the South Vietnamese took on a tough enemy and won. Name it," challenges David Hackworth, who was deputy senior adviser to the elite airborne division in the Cambodian drive.

Attention TurnstoPOWs Held by China

By KENNETH J. FREED

WASHINGTON (AP) — With attention sharply riveted on the plight of American prisoners in North Vietnam, an older problem of U.S. citizens held on mainland China is resurfacing, although its focus is slightly fuzzy.

Four Americans are in Peking's hands, including two civilians arrested in 1952 when their plane went down on a flight from Korea to Japan. The others are military pilots shot down in separate incidents in 1965 and 1967.

The situation of the four came up again last week during Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearings on U.S.-China policy. Sen. J.W. Fulbright, committee chairman, asked Harvard University law professor Jerome Cohen his thinking on the prisoners.

Cohen indicated not enough was being done regarding the two civilians, John Thomas Downey and Richard Fecteau, and new efforts should be made to secure their release.

Downey, of New Britain,

Friday, July 2, 1971
Conn., and Fecteau, of Lynn, Mass., were civilian employees of the Army when taken prisoner in November 1952 during what the United States said was an official flight.

At first thought dead, the Chinese disclosed two years later the two were alive and in prison; Fecteau for a 20-year term and Downey for life. They were charged with espionage-dropping Nationalist Chinese agents on the mainland.

Cohen suggested a possible answer to freeing Downey and Fecteau might be in a new investigation of the charges made by the Chinese.

He said John Foster Dulles, secretary of state when the two were captured, took the position the charges were trumped up. "But this is a different era," Cohen told the committee, "and it might be appropriate for the United States to make another inquiry into the case."

If the facts justify it, he added, the United States should admit the Chinese charges and "pay whatever price to secure their release."

The United States also should suggest to the Chinese that Downey and Fecteau be released early for good behavior, particularly since Fecteau reportedly will be freed next fall, Cohen said.
